-Honokong, August 20th, 1870. THERE can be very little question as to the soundness of the views enunciated by Chief-Justice Smale at the Meeting of the Legislative Council on Thursday, with respect to with its usefulness; and it really appears the organisation or rather the disorganisation that there have been undercurrents of one District Watchman, and when taken had of the Police Force. If there is any Service in which it is necessary to maintain discipline, Authorities having so long held back from that Service is the Police. If there is any one setting on foot this simple and most efficathing essential towards maintaining discipline | clous remedy. This step, combined; with anywhere, it is that there should be one Chief Justice Small's suggestion of placompetent Head. If there is any place in the cing the whole of the Police in Hongkong defence stated that he did not pawn it, but had The Sikh seized this man, the second prisoner, world where thorough organisation in every under one competent Head, would, there can picked up the pawn ticket outside a gambling who was identified as the man who had accomdepartment is required, that place is Hongkong.//If there is not complete organisation the greater part of the defects so long comin a Police Force, so far from its tending to the preservation of peace and the prevention of crime, it is likely to have precisely the opposite effect. Its action will become so much shack led, that opportunities will be afforded for the itude and regularity, which are the most important element of its strength. Above all it will lose that moral influence upon the criminal classes, which forms one of the most important and efficacious means of prevent- the difficulties of estimating the value of ing the occurrence of crime. //This end can only be obtained by the whole Force being concentrated under one efficient Head. When this is the case there is no clashing of interests: no interference of one department with another; but all moves regularly and forcibly. and the utmost effect can, in consequence, be produced in the smallest space of time. the Chinese were unworthy of credit. SUPREME COURT CHIMINAL SESSIONS:

BRYORE-THE HON. CHIEF JUSTICE SMALE

COW STEALING So Afong and Low Ayok plended not guilty to an information charging them with felunionely stealing a cow, the property of one Man Alin, at Pokfolum, on the 20th of July, 1870. the cows were grazing the boys saw two strangers taking away one of the cows, one dragging er by a rope round her horns and the other behind. The boys shouted, and three of them ran after the two men; who ran off towards Police station, A constable came out, but when he arrived he saw no cow, but the two prisoners running away from three boys, who were shouting after them. The constable arrested the two men in question.

The evidence of the boys, however, tended to clear the first prisoner, who was belind the cow, and might have had nothing to do with it, One of the witnesses boldly expressed his opipion that the first prisoner did not steal the cow, but was simply walking behind slowly. The Indian constable, on the other hand, saw both men running from the boys. A difficulty arose us to the direction taken by the prisoners before they were arrested. The interpreting After the defence, which was brief and of the customary nature. His Lordship summed the policeman saw the prisoners both running. Abing was now wide awake, and suggested sending the dollars to a money changer's shop close at hand for examination. Prisoner said be would go too. They went, and the coins were laid down at the changer's counter, from which the first prisoner instantly swept them up, and gave them to the second prisoner, who was ubiquitous and who immediately made good his escape, carrying the coins with him. In gathering thedollars up from the counter, the first prisoner had suggested going to mother changer a sliop. He was taken to the Police station. On the way thither he was observed to fumble with his shoe, and the constable's suspicions were immediately aroused. Having lodged his charge at the station, this constable returned, and found at the spot where the suspicious signs occurred, dollar, which was afterwards shown to be bad

This dollar was not included in the information out mention was made of it as corroborative evidence with regard to those which the prisoners were charged with uttering. dollar originally given for the bundle cheroots was shown to be bad, and the six dollars, though no more had been seen of them. were said by Ahing to look like had dollars. There was not time to observe them at the money changer's. When this case was being investigated in th Police Court, the Sikh countable in charge of the case, named Atms Singh, and who understands.

Chinese, saw a man crouching behind the dock. and heard him ask the first prisoner, who was within it. "How much money taken?" The prisoner replied, " One." The man behind the panied the first prisoner to the shop, "The second man was charged as an accomplice or accessory before the fact.

The dollars which were produced were worth I cents, and 14 cents respectively. They were made of copper, and silvered over. One was a Merican on the exterior, the other a Snunish dollar. His Lordship then summed up, addressing the jury as follows :- Gentlemen, of the jury. you will remember that the two prisoners are charged by the Attorney General that they did unlawfully utter a false coin intended to will remember that that is the coin produced and marked A. They are also charged with uttering six false coins. Now, gentlemen, on the outset of this case I think it better for me to simplify it by saying that the uttering of the six coins, although it is of vast importance as affecting the guilt of the prisoners with regard to the one coin, in not so proved as to substantiate the fact of their being bad silver. The reflected light of this transaction is of vast importance. I am particularly anxious that you should draw that distinction, because I cannot charge you that there is enough evidence to show that they uttered the six coins. You cannot tell whether they were good or bad. The conduct of the parties with reference to the six coins, however, reflects back on the transaction which took place with regard to the one which is actually proved be bad. Now, gentlemen, there is a distinction in law which I must point out to you. All the evidence as to the mere act done goes against the first prisoner. It was his hand which passed the one dollar -and if you believe the witnesses, there will be little doubt in your minds that he passed that dollar-and you will see that it was a false one. Well, you or I might honestly and innocently pass a false dollar; but it is that he unlawfully did it that he knew he was doing wropg. And to prove that, you must look at the surrounding circumstances. With regard to the first prisoner, all these suggestions. that took place as to the six dollars becomes Jung important as throwing a character and colour !on the transaction when be passed the dollar which is marked A. Under those circumstances, when the evidence has been read, shall leave the case as to this man to your consideration. Now we come to the case of the second prisoner. He says he did none of these things. But he is guilty of uttering if healded, or abetted, or counselled, or induced the first prisoner to nater, or took part in the uttering of, these coins. Did, the second prisoner aid the first? If he did he is of attering. And so on : did he abet, counse &c. That would be an inference, because it is one of those things which you cannot prove. You prove facts, and as reasonable men ship then read the evidence us He was glad to be able to say soms he frequently had occasion, in speaking of the police, to speak

The COLONIAL SECRETARY said he had not intended to take part in a discussion which appeared to be in fact a renewal that on the Estimates, but he would mention that the Government had long determined on a reduction in the expenditure on public offices. There had, however, been no time fixed for commencing the reductions, and meanwhile the Colonial Treasurer came forward and said be could dispense with two of bis clerks. The two he mentioned had, however, cen a long time in the office, and His Excellency thought it very unjust to send them away. But as the reduction had been determined on. the Colonial Treasurer was relieved of a great deal of responsibility and care by the expedient placing the public money in the Banks. This naturally lightened the work of the office, and two of the clerks were dispensed with though not those suggested by the Colonial Preasurer. Mesers Unrvallio and Alves were llowed to remain.

The COLONIAL TREASURER was anxious o say that this statement was so fur correct. He had thought it his duty to recommend: two Europeans who had shown great efficiency, but His Excellency had thought the Europeans should go and the Portuguese should be retained, and he bad, of course, submitted. That, however, did not set uside the fact that he (the Colonial Treasurer) had reduced the number of employee from 12 to 7. His recommendation was in August, and before that time he had never heard a whisper of any intention to reduce his establishment. He claimed, therefore, the credit of having proposed the reduction, though at the same time he had recommended increased salaries to compensate those remaining for the extra work thrown upon them. This he said in explanation of what had taken place on the preceding day, when the Colonial Secretary called attention to the fact of the increased salaries. He wished to call attention to the fact that this was an increase upon a decrease.

LIABILITY OF INN KEEPERS. This Ordinance came on for the second eading, and the Attorney General explained bat the liability of inn-keepers for robberies was a principle which came down to us through i long range of yours from the Roman laws and Prestorian edict. Inn-veepers were liable or robbery though not; for what was termed an act of God, including fire; earthquakes. empests, and the like, nor for loss' occusioned by the Queen's enemies. The Imperial Act ou! which this was framed had the effect of protecting the iun keepers to a certain extent, should not be modified and rendered harder on Chinese inn keepers, regard being had to the peculiar conditions of the Colony; and also whether European inn keepers should not be more protected here than they were at home. It would be easy to remodel the Ordinance to effect these changes if the Council thought it desirable. The Hon. Mr. Exers made some remarks bout a Manila grandee whom he had seen at Singapore travelling with $3,000 odd in coin. He thought the liability of inn keepers was

To the Shareholders of the Honakona & Whamnon GENTLEMBN. -The Directors have much pleasure in laying before you a extinfactory statement of the business of the Company for the part half year ending June 30th, 1870. The Amalgamation with the Union Dock Company took place on March 1st, and the profits since then, as compared with the two first months of the year have increased more than two-fold. This result has not been arrived at by any extraordinary excess of work diverted o the Dooks, but in a great measure by absence of active opposition formerly existing. Bufficient time has not elapsed to realize the full benefit resulting from Amalgamation with the Union Company, but judging from the amount of work now in progress, the Directors hope that the profits of the next six months will show an improvement. WHAMPOA PROPERTY. The Establishment at Whampon still maintain its reputation for extensive repairs to Machinery and Boilers. Beveral large orders are now being executed, which will take the forthcoming half year to complete. The Docks are in perfect order, and the whole property is in a very efficient state.

The difficulty with the Lookson Dock Contractor is likely soon to be settled. ABERDEEN, KOWLOON AND WANCHI PROPERTY There is nothing special to report. The Docks and Workshops are in first rate order, and the liberty to refuse any money given them for yard at Wanchi continues to be found most

> The Gross Earnings of the Company for the balf year amount to $291,673.83, of which the nett profit is $59,129.76, and the Directors recommend that a dividend be paid at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, which would be $20 per share on 1,500 shares for six months and $13.331 per share on 500 shares for four months. The report mentioned by Mr. Magnisc that the massacre bad taken place at Tientsin. and not at Peking, is in contradiction to the terms of the telegram, for at the same time and place as the occurrence of the massacre we are there told that the Roman Catholic Cathedral, which is at Peking and not at Tientain, were burnt, and further it is very improbable that at this time the French Charge d'Affaires would be anywhere but at the capital.
